

Iceland Itinerary

June 26th-July 2nd 2021

COVID Policy

You either need to be fully vaccinated to enter Iceland or show a PCR test of Negative 3 days prior to departure plus a paper stating that you had covid in the past. It's easier to just be fully vaccinated to travel internationally.

Once you arrive in Iceland, you go through customs/border control, pick up luggage and then get covid tested in the airport. You have to wait in your hotel for results which take max 2-4 hours and they text you your results. And then when flying back to US, you have to get rapid test before going to the airport and present the negative result to the check in people

Once in Iceland, there are no covid restrictions; it's just important in the airports.
